(b)(6); (b)(7)(C)

11 [REDACTED] dated 2/8/90, 2) a 2/26/90 article

12 from the "Aviation Week and Space Technology" Magazine on USAF

13 Training Systems Contracts, and 3) a 2/17/90 article from "Jane's

14 Defense Weekly", "USAF Seeks New Primary Trainer," p. 307.

15 On 2/28/90, OSI (Office of Special Investigations) Agent

16 [REDACTED] provided the enclosed letter of MIRA J.

17 SLOVAK, of Santa Paula, California, which requests information on

18 the Joint Primary Aircraft Training System (JPATS) Program of

19 ASD, which could then be transmitted to the AERO COMPANY in

20 Czechoslovakia. SLOVAK reveals in the letter that he (or she)

21 has acted as their agent in the sale of several airplanes and they may now be interested in the JPATS competition, which is a joint USAF/U.S. Navy program, that has been opened up to both

U.S. and any foreign firms for bids.

The letter is addressed to [ ]
The SD is the acronym for ASD's System's Special Projects Office (SPO), which has directorates and SPO's for tactical, bomber, transport and trainer aircraft, and other programs of the Air Force.

OSI and ASD are both interested in learning whether there could be any Czech or other Hostile Intelligence Service (HIS) connection to the captioned subject and firm in the past or currently while this is basically a non-classified program for the ASD/USAF and Navy, there could be reason for HIS collection efforts and contacts with USAF and Navy personnel involved directly or indirectly in the program.

b7E per FBI

It is noted that WPAFB is a key Air Force installation with about twenty thousand civilian employees, scientists, engineers and technicians, plus about eight thousand military personnel. Most of the Air Force research and development work is performed at or managed through WPAFB facilities, such as the Aeronautical Systems Division (ASD), AF Logistics Command (AFLC), Foreign Technology Division (FTD), AF Institute of Technology and 4950 Test Wing, all based there. Such programs as SDI (Strategic Defense Initiative), Stealth Aircraft Technology, Advance Cruise Missile Program, B-2 and B1-B Bomber, etcetera, are managed through WPAFB, which is adjacent to Fairborn, Ohio, just north of Dayton.

Cincinnati also believes [ ] in this matter would be to ascertain whether the Czech Intelligence Services had or currently have involvement with the subject, as well as to ascertain whether Czech Intelligence Services are still active in some capacity in this country per recent Bureau communications.

Therefore, Los Angeles is requested to initiate a Preliminary Inquiry in this matter to fully identify MIRA J. SLOVAK and MIRA J. SLOVAK AVIATION as well as the AERO COMPANY in Czechoslovakia any relationship it had or has with the Czech Intelligence Service or any other Hostile Intelligence Service (HIS).

Cincinnati will maintain contact with OSI at W-PAFB regarding this matter.
